This is a two- and one-half-story gable front Queen Anne-influenced Folk dwelling built ca. 1895. The dwelling has a roof of asphalt shingles, a continuous stone foundation, an exterior ivy-covered brick chimney and an exterior of weatherboard siding. On the main (N) façade is a partial-width, hipped roof porch with Tuscan wood columns on wood panel piers. The porch has an open wood railing in a geometrical pattern and a dentiled cornice. The main entrance retains its original, single-light and wood panel door with an original single-light transom. The main façade has chamfered bay with a decorative wood cut-out brackets and drop finial on the northeast corner. Above the second story windows on the main façade is a dentiled cornice. Also on this elevation is a tri-part attic window with a central arched window. In the gable field is a simple sunburst and vergeboard detail. Windows are original, one-over-one double hung wood sash and have simple wood cornice surrounds. The dwelling has been expanded off the rear façade with a two-story addition built ca. 1990.

To the rear of the dwelling is an original, frame garage/shed. It has a gambrel roof of asphalt shingles, a weatherboard exterior and a ca. 1985, large overhead track garage door with two false crossbeam patterns. In the upper portion of the façade is a vertical board false "bay door" with crossbeams.
